Out Of Darkness collection

Darkness is just a word but the Word is never the Thing! Regardless of the beauty of our Earth and the light of the sun, when one looks within there's too little beauty dominated by darkness, this darkness is in a constant changeable state which makes it a living thing. In "out of darkness" Maya communicated with this living thing, gazed at it then exposed her thoughts on it through these twelve beautiful paintings using acrylic, ink and spray paint.

Harmony collection

By letting go of what is not love, one might come upon what love is! Just the act of letting go opens the heart, sharpens the mind, and brings a harmonious inward state ; that is the very essence of love. In this collection, Maya exposed the elements of love on canvas through three glowing abstract paintings.

White Souls collection

Outwardly, things are disarrayed, incoherent and have no sense of harmony; the perception of that leaves one with total darkness. This darkness has its own light which when Maya delved into, beauty emerged on wood and canvas. This collection is mostly an abstract work of art where goodness is incarnated in white souls that can be clearly seen in living things around us during the darkest of times.

Moments collection

Our life is a movement in relationships, but for most of us our relationship to our intimate ones: family, friends or lovers has been conceptualized to fit a particular social structure, only to make our lives a mere routine and an endless inward struggle. In seeing the gap between the concept and the actuality, a certain truth comes out "The understanding of our relationship to the world begins with the constant learning about one's relationship to oneself." Maya has expressed her feelings on this matter through those stunning mixed media on canvas artworks.
